

Agile Lean Leadership Canvas - The Business Case

1. Why - Challenges What is the "trigger"? How are the challenges overcome today?	3. What - Solutions 3-5 key elements?	2. Value Proposition A short, clear and attractive statement.	7. Because - Rationale Why are the observation and solutions coherent and plausible?	1. Who - Beneficiaries Who could be the first to benefit?
5. Cost Expectation Expected costs and investments.	6. How - to Measure Early indicators of success or failure?		4. How - to Introduce Ways to inform, involve and rally people, getting their cooperation
	A. Constraints, Milestones, Risks Any existing and typically external limits to the options.		5. Value Expectation Plausible and visible, preferably quantifiable, benefits and values.

Survey - Readiness for Agile Lean Leadership

	Question, how strongly do you agree?	1	2	3	4	5	#
1	Top Management will fully back starting and completing the journey
2	This organization is quite able to identify and deal with problems and tough issues
3	People are not primarily focused on advancement to higher managerial positions
4	It is safe to admit a mistake or ask for help in this organization
5	Our experts do not have have strong personal turfs where they rule alone
6	There is a dominating general consensus that teamwork benefits everybody
7	It is generally recognized that we can do better with a better system of organization
8	We are willing make time in everyday work to invest in listening, feedback and changes
9	People generally have a strong drive to do a good job and improve
10	Most people understand and buy in to the organization's vision
11	Many managers miss being more part of the value stream
12	Our current operation is under pressure from outside or from growing fast
Sum							